

Silicon Supplies
Bare Die Solution Provider

Sierra Components, Inc. (SCI) is proud to announce we are the sole U.S. franchised distributor for all bare die and wafer products offered by Silicon Supplies in the UK.

Silicon Supplies (www.siliconsupplies.com) is a solution based provider of Silicon Discrete and IC (Integrated Circuit) bare die for use in niche trailing edge and leading edge applications. Established in 2011 the company applies technical support + engineering focus to solve supply chain problems and enable new product innovations. Serving a broad variety of markets including Aerospace & Defense, Space, Medical and Industrial, their combination of specialist and standard products can provide a long term fully supported solution for the entire life of the program. They put long term die availability at the forefront of their offerings by factoring in support for 25+ years.

This commitment to long-term support means no re-qualification or design changes for you – the client. Also highly valued is their objective to provide access to low quantities of material without high minimum order quantities. These together with timely availability from stock and unit price stability, irrespective of semiconductor market volatility, add up to a winning combination and we are proud to partner with them.

The Silicon Supplies Parametric Search Engine (<https://siliconsupplies.com/parametric-search/>) provides engineers and designers alike a fantastic tool to procure die solutions for the toughest of design problems.

Contact your SCI rep for pricing, availability and all questions regarding this revolutionary wafer and die manufacturer. You can access their product portfolio here: (<https://siliconsupplies.com/products/>)